

Julie Silver, MD

Julie Silver, MD is an assistant professor at Harvard Medical School in the Department of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation. Dr. Silver is an award-winning author and has edited/written many books including After Cancer Treatment: Heal Faster, Better, Stronger (Johns Hopkins Press) and What Helped Get Me Through: Cancer Survivors Share Wisdom and Hope (American Cancer Society).

Dr. Silver is the co-founder of Oncology Rehab Partners which has developed the STAR Program® Certification—a best practices and evidence-based model for a cancer rehabilitation clinical service line that has been adopted by more than 100 hospitals throughout the United States. Her work in cancer rehabilitation has been recognized by the ACS (Lane Adams Quality of Life Award), Massachusetts General Hospital (The One Hundred), The Boston Globe (Top Innovator in Medicine 2012), Susan G. Komen Foundation (Local Hero), Bloomberg/Businessweek (America's Most Promising Social Entrepreneurs 2012), and the Stevie Awards (2012 Gold for Most Innovative Company & Best Company/ Business Services).

Dr. Silver is currently on the medical staff at Spaulding Rehabilitation, Massachusetts General and Brigham and Women's hospitals. Her work has been featured on many national media outlets including The Today Show, The Early Show, Dr. Oz, ABC News Now, AARP Radio and NPR.